

THE URBAN FARM AT STAPLETON
Presents 2010 Workshops for Young Children

Fun On The Farm Summer Workshop

Miss Piggie Wiggle the pig invites kids to spend a week of mornings at The Urban Farm learning about farm animals and growing tasty and healthy things to eat. Farm kids will enjoy a hands-on experience that incorporates the work of the farm with learning about the many contributions that livestock make to our everyday lives – from what we eat to what we wear. Participants will learn first-hand about sheep, goats, chickens, turkeys, horses, donkeys, and pigs. The Farm’s learning gardens will provide children with ample opportunity to get dirty and wet while tending the fruits, vegetables, and flowers. They will even learn how to make homemade jam and pickles.

7 - 10 year olds 9:00 – noon Monday thru Friday Cost - $175 per session FOF-1: June 14 -- 18

Storybook Farm Summer Workshop

A farm experience designed especially for young children between the ages of four and six, Storybook Farm introduces youngsters to the excitement of farm animals and plants through engaging books. Each morning begins with a story – Going To A Horse Farm, Hedgeie’s Surprise, Three Billy Goats Gruff, etc. From there, the children proceed to the farmyard where literature is transformed into real life. For example, having read about children visiting a horse farm, participants will actually groom miniature horses and maybe give them a bubble bath, go for a horse ride on a big horse, wield a muck rake, feed the horses, and climb on the hay bales. Guaranteed to be a delightful way for young children to learn about farming.
